The HVF is a non-denominational and independent body, which offers universal values education resources transforming teaching, learning and community cohesion.

The screenshot shows the Human Values Foundation website. At the top, it says 'Home | News | Testimonials | About us | Help us | Contact us'. Below that is a navigation bar with 'buy our programme'. The main content area features several sections: 'Education in Human Values (EHV) for 5-12 year olds', 'Your solution for a values-driven education', 'Social & Emotional Education (SEE) for 12-14+ year olds', 'Education in Human Values (EHV) for 5-12 year olds', and 'Social & Emotional Education (SEE) for 12-14+ year olds'. Each section includes a brief description and a 'WATCH HOW' or 'FIND OUT MORE' button. At the bottom, there is a 'Positive feedback from schools using the HVF programmes' section.

EHV – a proven value-adding resource for primary school children of 5 to 12 years

- EHV gives you a highly acclaimed, multi-purpose resource comprising ready-to-use Lesson Plans for developing pupils' characters and improving their competencies – raising individuals' and your school's performance.
- The wide range of topics equips you with superb quality materials, ideal for assemblies, classwork and achieving curriculum goals.
- Its engaging and motivational content, centred around positive, universal values can contribute significantly to building an admired ethos in your school and its extensive practical activities help promote cohesion – as a school and with the wider community.
- Educational practitioners worldwide delight in seeing pupils quickly picking up the concepts, thoroughly enjoying this lively programme and keenly putting into practice their newly acquired qualities and life skills.

EHV, published by the Human Values Foundation, provides you with a set of 3 inspiring A4 books for successfully embedding and reinforcing attractive values: a Teaching Manual – full of tips, practical guidance and expert advice – and 2 volumes comprising 44 time-saving Lesson Plans, covering 2-3 years' work.

- The simple, well-structured format is conducive to high quality learning. Music is included in the manuals but if required, a CD with 30 of the lovely songs is readily available.
- Spiritual and moral values are innovatively explored – equipping pupils with helpful reference points to guide their thinking, decision-making and actions. The resulting confidence and self-esteem make it easier for them to successfully manage challenges they may encounter, such as crime, racism, drug abuse and violence.
- This enriching programme enhances your entire school – benefiting children and all the adults, whatever their role in the school community.

This user-friendly, cross-curricular resource offers you a wealth of material for high quality teaching and learning. It's especially good for meeting Every Child Matters expectations; SMSC, PSHE and Citizenship education; and for implementing and integrating SEAL – as well as new curriculum initiatives.

Based around the core values of Truth, Love, Peace, Right Conduct and Non-Violence and embracing many other important related values, the concepts are easy to teach using a range of familiar techniques including:

- Class discussions
- Story telling
- Singing
- Quotations
- Group activities
- Silent sitting (sometimes known as silent reflection).

Join the schools that are delighted with the surprisingly rapid and uplifting effect this engaging programme has had not only on their pupils but the entire school community.

REPORTED BENEFITS FROM EHV:

- Helps raise pupils' performance
- Enhances school's ethos
- Enriches home life
- Strengthens community cohesion

Will teachers need to learn anything new?

The EHV programme is easy to deliver as it's been specifically designed using familiar teaching methods. The only tool that may be relatively new is 'silent sitting' or 'silent reflection'. Being highly practical, the course encourages engagement, reflection and response skills and naturally helps to promote and reinforce positive behaviour everywhere in your school. Its enriching activities and stimulating ideas provide a lively resource to enable your school to successfully embed Personal, Learning and Thinking Skills (PLTS).

Such is the excitement about the positive effects of this programme, we constantly receive testimonials and comments from teachers, education facilitators, parents and children. Below are a few; many more are on our website.

What the Professionals say:

The impact the Education in Human Values programme made on the children's attitudes and behaviour was immediate and it has been positively and highly praised in our recent inspection. I cannot think of any school that would not benefit from it and I will certainly be recommending it to my colleagues.
Headteacher, Primary School, Devon.

Our school will always be indebted to the Human Values Foundation. Your learning modules on values education were guidelines in many lessons and assemblies. The Human Values Foundation in the UK helped a South African school more than six thousand miles away to find its true humanity. You helped us find the Mandela way of reconciliation, peace and goodwill to all.
Headteacher, Johannesburg, South Africa.

What the Children say:

It's a brilliant programme which should be used in every school big or small. It helps people control their tempers and to bring everyone closer together.
Katrina, 11.

The "Human Values" have helped everyone including pupils, teachers and parents. It has taught me that if we used all the values at least most of the time our world would be a better place.
Laura, 11.
